Dear Sir or Madam,

The CNS Engineering Club is comprised of ambitious hardworking students who meet every day after school designing and building a vehicle to race in the 2019 Shell Eco-marathon competition. Last year with all of the contributions we received, we were able to place first in our category and fourth in the Drivers World Championship Qualifier at the 2018 Shell Eco-marathon in Sonoma, California. This year, we are re-designing the urban-concept hydrogen fuel cell powered vehicle to improve our performance. In addition we are designing and building a prototype battery electric vehicle.

The Shell Eco-marathon is an annual, international extreme mileage competition where high school and college students are challenged to design and drive the most energy efficient vehicle on the least amount of fuel. The team is judged on vehicle design, its safety features, and most of all efficiency. For more information on the Shell Eco-marathon, see their website:

HOW CAN YOU BE INVOLVED?

We have put in countless hours every day, on weekends and on school breaks to reach our goal of participating in this event. Most of us are planning to pursue college degrees in STEM fields and this experience is invaluable as we enter college with real life engineering experience. Your contributions go a long way in helping us prepare for the construction of our vehicle and expenses associated with the trip to California. If your organization would like to make a contribution, please contact Mr. Miner, Technology Teacher at CNS High School (mminer@nscsd.org). Any contribution (money or materials) of any amount would be greatly appreciated. See the back for possible support options.

Sincerely Yours,

C-NS Performance Engineering Team
